Tapescript

Hi, I'm Claire and I live in Dewsbury. Dewsbury is a town in the middle of England. It's not the busiest and coolest town, but it's okay. We're famous for our mills; some are older than a hundred years. But we don't have a lot of attractions or sights.

So, at the weekends we often go to other places around here. I like the town Wakefield east of Dewsbury because it has the greatest watersports centre ever. My sister loves animals so we sometimes go to the Ponderosa Centre outside Dewsbury. They have snakes there and you can touch them. That's cool!

The animal centre is near Dewsbury Country Park. So we can take our dog Barky and walk around the park or across the fields. It's nicer and greener there than in the town. And it's quieter, of course. The quietest place is between the animal centre and Cranelly Farm because there are only fields.

We all love the farm. Cranelly Farm is the biggest farm in the region and it's opposite the animal centre all the way across the fields. There are not only animals at the farm, they have an adventure playground too. And shops, restaurants and even an indoor playground. It's greater there than at the playgrounds in town. Last year we had a day out at the farm with our school. That was much more fun than the lessons at school.

But what I like most about my hometown is the short way to the sea. It's shorter to the North Sea than to the Irish Sea.

What about your hometown?
